

Nils, one of the "N" puppies is now named Perrin. Here he relaxes in his new home with his new big brother Spotty. Spotty was adopted from Greyhound Rescue.

Nils/Perrin is a smart little fellow and learned to sit on command his very first night in his new home.

Pretty (below) is at the Adoption Center waiting for a home. She is well mannered and is the perfect match for someone who wants a sweet companion dog that is settled down and well behaved.

Cassie, a sweet Chihuahua, was taken to the Franklin County Animal Control Shelter in December by her owner. Cassie reportedly had a Jack Russell boy friend and was pregnant. Her human family had to move to a place that wouldn't allow pets. She was a really dear little gal who wasn't at all shaky and nervous like some Chihuahuas can be. She already had milk coming and a bulging belly. Humane Society Rescue and Transport Volunteer Elizabeth Little picked up Cassie from the animal control shelter and Rescue Coordinator Anita Scott found a generous sponsor to donate her board at the Pet Clinic of Rocky Mount for a couple of days before being transferred to another rescue group who had a foster home for Cassie. As you can see, she had her puppies in a comfortable nursery where the pups will stay until they are old enough for adoption.
